

Human Services (MA)

This program is offered by the College of Science and Health. It is available online and at the St. Louis main campus.

Program Description

The human services curriculum is designed to prepare students for professional careers in human and social service agencies. The curriculum incorporates interdisciplinary knowledge, and local and global perspectives which facilitate the interpretation, analysis, and synthesis of human services concepts, theories and