About

The Susan Polgar Institute for Chess Excellence (SPICE) at Webster University welcomes all undergraduate students to apply for a SPICE Chess Scholarship for the 2021-2022 academic year. To be awarded, applicants must have an over-the-board tournament play USCF and/or FIDE rating that is less than two years old. Applicants must meet Webster University general admission requirements. Applications are reviewed by the SPICE Scholarship Committee.

Who should apply?

Students who are interested in competing in local, national, and international chess tournaments should apply. Students who are interested in promoting and supporting scholastic chess and other chess-related community service work should also apply.

Chess Excellence Scholarships

The Chess Excellence scholarship may include partial or full tuition, fees, room, and/or board for undergraduate students. The application deadline is the Friday before classes begin for the term for which you are applying.

Renewing awards

SPICE scholarships acknowledge student chess and academic accomplishments, such as superior tournament play, excellent scholastic chess community service, and outstanding academic record. Scholarships are renewable up to the completion of 120 undergraduate credit hours. Renewals
